Tip: Many of the bus tours mentioned below are included in the form of something along with a New York sightseeing pass. Best Hop-On Hop-Off New York Bus Tour A traditional hop-on hop-off bus company offers transportation to the city's major sites, attractive if the New York subway system seems difficult. Typically, guests can purchase an access pass for 1, 2 or 3 days and get on and off the bus at any of the company's designated stops at any time. Most multi-day tickets include night tours, boat cruises and discount coupons. The price of these combination tickets is sometimes too good to pass. Some have live guides, while others offer audio headsets with commentary in multiple languages. The market is very competitive with companies that regularly exceed each other's prices. Click on the link to see the deal. However, if off, no information is provided.Commentary on the bus and board consists of occasional recordings. That's why these tours are perfect for those looking for an information shuttle service between attractions rather than detailed information about the city. Leave the in-detail tour to our paid walking tours and audio tours. Similarly, during the busy season, seat availability is not guaranteed, so you will have to wait for multiple buses to pass through one stop. Also, bus tours guarantee easy traffic in the city, but not always the fastest as all bus tours are subject to NYC traffic! The BIG BUS TOURS Big Bus Tour consists of more than 35 stops around New York on five lines, including downtown, Uptown, Midtown Manhattan routes, the Harlem route, and one line in Brooklyn (see map details). You can also download their app that has maps to help you plan your route. Listen to English-speaking guides and audio recordings in 10 languages on the bus, and enjoy free time to explore at each stop. They also offer hop-on hop-off tours as well as night tours that are not combo packages. If you're also planning a trip to Washington, D.C., Big Bus offers a package that combines both cities. Big Bus New York Big Bus reviews are nyc's most reviewed hop-on hop-off bus tours, which the company considers New York City's premium hop-on hop-off bus service. This company sports an overall 4 out of 5 star ratings to get your guide with TripAdvisor. Reading their reviews will help you set the right expectations. Even those who did not enjoy their experience usually reported that this bus service was worth considering. Tickets are just a few of their most popular tickets here. The price is a ticket purchased online. It's a bit expensive on-site. Two days of all Big Bus routes are included free of charge with the New York Pass. According to some passengers, their tour guide can be very hit or miss. As expected at this point, some of the negative comments discuss the time they had to wait for the bus. In such a busy city, there's not much any company can do to improve the problem. Other complaints revolve around inadequate buses and guides. The New York skyline is breathtakingly beautiful when illuminated after dark, and bus tours are a great way to see many different parts of the city in a short amount of time. Night tours don't usually work as hop-on hop-off tours, but many are operated by hop-on hop-off companies on double-decker buses. There is also a night tour of the small-group shuttle bus. Note: Many of these night tours are included in the multi-day tickets offered by each company. American Guided Tours In addition to their highly rated daily tours, this company also offers one of the longest and most detailed evening tours in New York. Big Bus Night Tour Big Bus offers night bus tours departing between Times Square (6pm and 8pm during the winter months) and every 15-20 minutes between 7-9 pm. Sites include Radio City Music Hall, Fifth Avenue, the Empire State Building, the Manhattan Bridge, and the Manhattan skyline from brooklyn's waterfront. The December Night Tour is a Holiday Lights Tour. Greyline NYC's night tour reviews are mixed, but there are twice as many positive comments as positive ones. Some passengers have reported that they learned quite a bit during this trip and this will appear to be a general compliment. Unfortunately, there are also plenty of complaints focused on long line and impressive tour guides, so it's hard to say what your individual experience will be like. Price: $54/adult, $44/child's note: Get 15% off all grey line bus tours and packages with promo code FREETOURS15. Duration: As with the 1.5-hour CITYSIGHTS NY Grey Line experience, most of the reviews for this service are excellent, but there are some negative comments worth mentioning. Complaints can vary from an impressive tour guide to not being able to jump off at any time. Like other night tours, this is not a hop-on, hop-off bus tour and many passengers would prefer it to be. Unfortunately, you won't find many night bus tours that allow passengers to jump off whenever they want. That said, there are twice as many positive comments and some guests call this the best tour CitySights has to offer. Many of the combo deals offered by this company include night tours, and multiple customers who have made use of these deals report that this was their favorite experience back to the top
